Reflections and Resilience: Supporting Alpha Mu Through Changing Times

Once again, the academic year is coming to a close at MIT, and we will be sending some of our brothers out into the world to apply what they have learned in their years at MIT and Alpha Mu. As you will see in the articles in this issue of the 530 AM, they have already done some very interesting things at MIT. Our chapter is a lively and thriving place.

Colleges have been in the news recently regarding many challenges to operational procedures and uncertainty regarding funding. Our organization is fortunate to be associated with a world-class institution that supports independent living groups such as ours. In this time of funding uncertainty, I want to thank you again for your past generosity and support. I ask you to dig a little deeper this year to ensure that the work Alpha Mu does continues. I am confident that MIT will continue to attract the best and brightest students and that we can continue to round out their education with the learning experiences that come from independent living and the operation of our chapter house.

If you have news that you want to share, please send it along.

Fraternally,

Keith T. Kallberg '68

We've been busy hosting future MIT students through various fly-in programs, but we're excited to return to our usual social energy, especially after an exciting Onur Usmen Lineage Cup. Of course, no Thursday would be complete without Jose Vargas's '27 Theta office hours. It's a
